13. HOD Colloquium

- Was held at SACL A 2023 (See program). Estelle reports back.
- A HOD Online meeting will be arranged during October 2023.

14. Feedback from group activity

The group activity consisted of an ice breaker outside – on the first day, where delegates were divided into 3 groups and shared information about themselves and their fields of interest. They were then again divided into 3 different groups depending on their main modules that they present e.g., Structured and OO programming, Visual programming and IS fields e.g., Databases, System analysis & Design etc.

There was an hour workshop after the icebreaker where the delegates in the groups used sticky notes, flip chart paper and whiteboard markers to document their reflections and discussions on the following:

Challenges within their modules, possible tips, and support to each other, learning material used, etc. The flip chart papers were put up in the back of the room, (so that others could see during the conference).

During the AGM on the last day there was a report back by each group. Dimi Keykaan (visual programming). Henri van Rensburg (IS) and Philip Machanick (Structured and OO programming) gave feedback. Delegates' feedback was that the first-day icebreaker helped them to mingle better with each other during the conference. They could share valuable insight with each other.

Younger members were able to share in a safe environment and learn from others.

This type of engagement and activity is recommended for future SACL A conferences.

a) Future host

Estelle Taylor (president) explains that in future HEI's can apply to host the SACL A conference (moving on from 2027 as hosts are already in place for 2024 – 2027).

c) Work in progress

Andre Calitz asked about an additional track with work in progress papers (+- 4 pages). This was discussed, there are pros and cons about this. The next hosts will decide on this as it may depend on the number of papers received and willingness of departments to fund such delegates having a WIP paper.
